NOW, -- THE NEW ACME THORNLESS YOUNGBERRY. -- (Plant Patent No. 4)

The Acme Thornless Youngberry is the world's most SENSATIONAL plant discovery of recent years. It has the same large, delicious, berries of the common Young dewberry described below, from which it is a sport plant. It has no thorns, and very few small seeds. The largest, finest quality, most productive, and most profitable berry grown. Records of 20,000 quarts and $2,500.00 per acre. Brings highest prices. Great demand fresh or frozen, and for wines and juices. Berries 2 inches long, 30 to 60 fill a quart basket. Ripens earliest, about May 15th. Easiest to handle and cultivate. Beautiful wine color. Finest, most distinct, lasting dewberry - raspberry flavor. The U. S. A. Dept of Agriculture, State Experiment Stations, Agriculture Colleges, and other leading authorities thruout the country recommend the Young Dewberry as the finest, most productive, profitable and satisfactory all-purpose berry grown. The U. S. A. Bureau of Plant Industry says: "The Acme Thornless is considered better than the thorny Young Dewberry, being somewhat hardier and possibly a little more productive." The Acme, being thornless, is an ornamental novelty as well as the world's best berry. Quick money crop, -- Our 1 year old plants bear in 1 year, and a full crop the second year.
